The main purpose of your stay as a guest Ph.D. student will be to continue your work on your thesis project entitled: "Bacterial conjugal gene transfer in plant compartments" I will be happy to act as your host and co-supervisor during your research stay. As part of my research on horizontal gene transfer in the environment, we have developed innovative plasmid delivery systems to investigate the gene transfer between environmental bacterial strains, which can be very useful in your thesis. In this context, I will be happy to share these strains, genetic tools, and "know-how" with you and exchange and discuss ideas.

Your stay is under the condition that all costs, including flight tickets and insurance, will be fully covered by your own funds or by funds from "Dirección Académica de Postgrado at Universidad de La Frontera, Chile and the grant "beca de internacionalización de doctorados). From my side, I will provide available office space, free access to the Internet and library borrowing privileges, and all necessary for your training stay in my laboratory.

If you are a citizen from outside the EU/EEA and Switzerland, you must have obtained a residence and work permit before starting working at the University of Copenhagen as a guest.

We look forward to welcoming you at the University of Copenhagen.

Yours sincerely,
